LIONS LAUDED FOR MEMORIAL PLANS

Legion Men Speak Praises at First Ladies' Night Banquet.

Ladies' night of the Lions' club at the Grand hotel Thursday night was enjoyed by 35 couples who heard several speakers talk on one of the finest projects proposed, and to be carried out by the Lions' club—erecting a memorial tablet to those both living and dead who served in the World war.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Gibbons, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kampa, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham, John Gross and Miss Lella Venable.

President W. T. Clark presided at the regular business session following the dinner, which gave the women an insight into what occurs at the weekly luncheon.

Edward Eyster was toastmaster for the program which followed. Dr. Clark gave the toast to the women and Mrs. C. V. Kerch responded, speaking especially of the service to the country made by Lionism.

Speaking on the erection of a tablet to take the place of the shabby affair now standing in front of the park, Alderman Gibbons lauded the efforts of the Lions' club. He recommended quick action and cited efforts to put it over two years ago.

Reports on Memorial

Otto Oestreich, of the memorial committee of the club, said that no definite action toward a memorial had been taken, that it was still under consideration. A $5,000 bronze tablet with marble base is proposed.

Ralph Kampa, commander of the Richard Ellis post of the American Legion, voiced the opinion of the majority of former service men that the country had too soon forgotten the war and had failed to fulfill its obligations.

Placing by the city of a temporary memorial in the form of a flag pole with base at the Corn Exchange was suggested by Robert Cunningham, former post commander.

Hope for establishment of a living memorial in the construction of an auditorium of great benefit to the community in the future was expressed by Robert Cunningham, former post commander.

Soloists Heard

Entertainment was furnished by Doris Hamor, as the dancing doll and with a solo, George Hatch with his harp and a vocal solo by F. K. Deane. Following the program dancing was enjoyed with Hatch's orchestra furnishing the music.

Prizes were awarded to Mesdames Guy Bridges, C. V. Kerch, William Peniche and Henry Casey. F. K. Deane was given the men's prize.

STONE CUTTER IS COMPENSATED FOR CONTRACTING "T. E."

(By Associated Press.)

Madison — An American commission Friday awarded compensation to a stonecutter for tuberculosis contracted as a result of his employment. Evidence showed the afflicted man had been a stonecutter for 30 years.

The commission held that the fact the man had been able to work for such a period in his occupation showed that his work was responsible for his condition.

Increased compensation was awarded by the commission on account of the death of a workman due to the same cause. The commission held that the award, evidence showed that at the time of the accident the adjustable shield on the wheel was pushed back leaving an opening at the front of the guard. The commission held that if the guard had been constructed according to the safety order the probability of an accident occurring would have been removed.

Germania Used Bluffs

"We couldn't foresee," he said, "that it would be more objectionable to the Germans than to the French in whose towns they had been garrisoned. After we learned it was, they were withdrawn."

The German objection was more of a surprise because they employed black troops and if they did not bring them to the front they would have no means of bringing them "could be found. They did find means to invade Belgium Congo with blacks."

Then the Tiger came to General Borch's statement that the German army was responsible for most of Europe's woes, because of the treaty of Versailles.

"Let those who say I asked too much go to Europe—let them bring their own armies and let us see what it takes where it can be seen."

Moreover, if too much was asked at Versailles, which I do not believe, they were withdrawn."

STONE CUTTER IS COMPENSATED FOR CONTRACTING "T. E."

(By Associated Press.)

Madison — An American commission Friday awarded compensation to a stonecutter for tuberculosis contracted as a result of his employment. Evidence showed the afflicted man had been a stonecutter for 30 years.

The commission held that the fact the man had been able to work for such a period in his occupation showed that his work was responsible for his condition.

Increased compensation was awarded by the commission on account of the death of a workman due to the same cause. The commission held that the award, evidence showed that at the time of the accident the adjustable shield on the wheel was pushed back leaving an opening at the front of the guard. The commission held that if the guard had been constructed according to the safety order the probability of an accident occurring would have been removed.

Overcoat Special — $25.00. Heavy warm overcoats, best all around, newest models in plaid back materials. Unusual coats at only $25.00. Rehbors's.

"We couldn't foresee," he said, "that it would be more objectionable to the Germans than to the French in whose towns they had been garrisoned. After we learned it was, they were withdrawn."

The German objection was more of a surprise because they employed black troops and if they did not bring them to the front they would have no means of bringing them "could be found. They did find means to invade Belgium Congo with blacks."

Then the Tiger came to General Borch's statement that the German army was responsible for most of Europe's woes, because of the treaty of Versailles.

"Let those who say I asked too much go to Europe—let them bring their own armies and let us see what it takes where it can be seen."

TOMATO BEST OF VEGETABLE FOODS

Most Healthful Because of Vitamins, Acids, Doctors Agree.

The lowly tomato, do you know it is the greatest vegetable in the world? Here are some facts about it recently compiled, and on which the country's most prominent doctors agree:

Tomatoes are the richest of all foods in vitamins. They are the richest of all vegetables in the natural health acids which keep the stomach and intestines in condition. They are the most extraordinary corrector for the kidneys—a gentle, natural stimulant which helps wash away the poisons which build up in the system. And the greatest of all, the tomato is one of the most pleasing foods.

Tomatoes are now being used in large hospitals for sick children. Instead of giving them milk, in many cases, tomatoes and tomato juice are fed to them. Army and navy authorities are loud in their praises of this, one of the oldest of vegetables.

Besides being good for digestion, constipation, kidney disease and being among the most easily digested of all foods, tomatoes are said to be good for reducing. Containing a great deal of acid, and little fat-producing qualities, they are often prescribed in cases of extreme obesity. The tomato's three acids—malic, citric and phosphoric—are all curative of certain diseases.

Canned Tomatoes Freshest
Paradoxical as it may seem, the canned tomato is the freshest of all "fresh" tomatoes purchased in stores. Here may be many days old, they being grown in Chicago hothouses, kept in the wholesale houses there awhile, then shipped here, changing hands twice before getting to the customer. Canned tomatoes are usually but a few hours old when cooked and canned, and they are kept better in cans than any other vegetable or fruit, prominent medical people assert.

The original home of the tomato, according to a prominent French writer, was in Peru, and was brought to Europe as a food in 1492, quickly spreading to all countries of the then known world, especially those on the Mediterranean. The name came from the Italian "pomato doro", meaning "apple of gold."

In addition to the value of the tomato, which would seemingly make it the most precious and expensive of all vegetables, it is among the cheapest and most easily grown. The fruit, for a fruit it really is, ripens all during the summer—you may have tomatoes early and late from your own garden, with but a little effort, and then in the winter, there are the excellent canned tomatoes, which are as good or better than the fresh.

Prepare for Thanksgiving
With years the only survival of the summer and fall fruit season, local markets are now stocking up on winter vegetables and good things to eat for the Thanksgiving trade, which has already begun. Oranges and apples continue to come in in profusion.

The Wall Flower

A DISTURBANCE
Chapter 6
Dora wondered why Gladys should hate Morton Newberry. Or, rather, she wondered how she could hate anyone as nice as he. In all her life Dora had not met anyone like him. So she thought as she lay awake for an hour or so, she had been a lovely party, she had been the nicest she had ever attended. She remembered where Gladys went. But she always sat in a corner, she spoke to no one, she was awkward and uncomfortable until she knew the people very well indeed. Even then she was unusually quiet.

No one—that is, no young man—had ever paid attention to her before. Morton was the first—and she was 21. The tiny budding feeling of romance that comes to most girls at 16 or even earlier, came to her now for the first time. She was very quiet when she felt sleepy, because she liked to think of all the things they talked about while she was washing dishes. As for Gladys, she did not lay awake, she never did. Like her mother, her eyes were heavy as soon as she was quiet and with nothing to do; she was asleep the moment her head was on the bed, she expressed her opinion of all her recent guests.

"The snow's getting worse. It's a blizzard this time for sure. It's good they all live near here, you might suppose. Pop hadn't shoveled off any snow to see the pavement. Guess we'll be moved in by Monday." She yawned again, leaning back against the bed post and unbuttoning her dress leisurely as she talked. "It's all right for all but Mort. He lives pretty far off—guess he had some time getting home, so it's good they all live near here. Gladys, she went early." She laughed again, pulling her dress from her shoulders, too warm blooded to mind the cold air against her skin. She looked extra ordinarily voluptuous as she sat there with drooping eyelids—a voluptuousness not yet conscious of itself.

"What a boob he is! I didn't ask him—Jesse brought him along." She forgot him promptly, and began talking to herself. "Jesse, at the moment, was her favorite—a husky, six-foot-two chap of 21 or so, with an amount of energy that was the hardest farm work could find. Mrs. Nicholson hoped that this liking

Dinner Stories

Sir Arthur Pinero has the reputation of being one of the most careful of modern producers.

On one occasion he expostulated with an actor for speaking a certain line in a pedantic fashion. "I have always spoken the line that way," said the actor, with dignity, "and I shall continue to do so."

"My dear sir," was Pinero's caustic retort: "by all means speak the line as you will, I would be the last person in the world to deprive you of one of your laughs."—Humorist (London).

In July, 1914, there was a prize fight in London between "Gunboat" Smith and Georges Carpentier. At the time there were three American ships in the Thames, anchored off Gravesend. That night a riverman passing the squadron sang out: "Gunboat Smith lost a foul in the sixth round."

Whereupon an officer of the deck answered the hail, "This is not the Gunboat Smith, it is the Battleship Illinois."

The insurance adjuster who had been investigating the fire turned to go. "I came down here to find out the cause of this fire, and I have done so," he remarked.

"That's what I want to know. What caused it?" demanded the house-owner.

"The fire was undoubtedly caused by rubbing a three-thousand dollar insurance policy on a two-thousand dollar house."—Everybody's.

AND SOME more about that elusive state high school football championship. In other years, when a howl was raised about it, too many smiled and passed it up. Not this year! A strenuous protest is being made over Wisconsin, rearing the air under the banner of the state high school football championship. The minute the matter is placed in another place, up it goes in another. Here's the latest. It comes from the pen of R. L. Bangsberg, sports editor of the La Crosse Tribune:

"RECENT action of members of the state board of control in virtually rolling over on their backs and dismissing all hopes of staging elimination games to determine in some manner the high school football champion of Wisconsin is a matter that is being regretted all over the state. Yet, one has no more reason this year to expect a satisfactory decision in the matter than they have in the many years previous when seasons have ended with undefeated teams in all sections clamoring to place their hat in the championship ring."

"It is a situation which the state board has apparently paid little attention, yet one that is of utmost importance in the realm of high school sports. In many instances, teams without any official guidance, haphazardly schedule games to the end of the season and rarely does the so-called championing game, which is the real test of the prestige which should be accorded that event."

BANGSBERG then goes on to quote the Gazette on some of the hope it has resurrected from the morgues of the past, particularly with respect to 1913 when Janesville was wrestling for the title, and Edgerton was out for it. Then he goes on and agrees with the busy man in complimenting the state board of control, I. A. A. state board of control, which is charged with the duty of dividing the state into five districts next year. He says:

"HOWEVER, the state board lends somewhat of encouragement to the situation in a recent announcement that a division of the state into five zones, for competition in each, is contemplated for next season. Under this plan games could be scheduled among teams of the respective zones until around the first of November when winners of each zone would be compelled to abide by dictates of the board in co-operation with the zone governors regarding the remainder of the schedule. An arrangement of this kind would provide ample time for necessary elimination games in the various zones, all of which would lead up to a championship game and a satisfactory culmination of the season. We are for some such arrangement."

Steve Lesque Kidnapping—H. H. Fraxco denied report from Pacific coast that Frank Chance had purchased interest in Boston Red Sox. Plans being laid to extend the baseball league of Michigan to include cities of Ohio and Indiana. Cobb denies he was unofficially informed his batting average is over .400.

Italy invites European teams to tennis tournament.

Scout's About Scramblers—Organizations starting bouts in Detroit must hereafter post $5,000 bond to prevent failures to meet guarantees which would result in forfeitures. Former heavyweight champ, offered $30,000 to meet Floyd Johnson at Buffalo in January. Efforts being made to match Sammy Mandell, boxer, with Joe Lynch, bantam champion, with Joe Lynch, bantam champion.

Hot Off the Gridiron—Alumni and public up in air over editorial in Chicago Daily Maroon discouraging new stadium. With nothing definite as to the possible lineup, Badgers arrived in Chicago Friday morning with Irish not in best shape. Thomas' battering, Zorn's smashing, Strohmeyer's running and Pyott's punning will feature Maroon attack against Wisconsin.

Purdue team is ready with the exception of Wellman, who has a broken rib in excellent condition and spirit. Ohio State arrives at Urbana. Illinois got light workout and some strong verbal pointers from Zuppke. Finishing a long open scrimmage behind closed doors, Iowa is ready to meet Northwestern. Purple, backed by enthusiasm of entire student body, reaches Iowa with Wenzel ready to play quarter instead of Rehm and Hathaway at right half in place of Taylor. Confident of beating Minnesota and copping the Big Ten title, Michigan leaves for Minneapolis with plans to use same line as defeated Wisconsin. Gophers are probably will shift backfield for Wolverine attack. Harvard all worked up with hopes of win over Yale.

Richards Has New Offense for Maroons

Madison—With every man of the squad in prime condition, drilled in all the football that four hard conference games and a veteran coaching staff could teach, the University of Wisconsin eleven, accompanied by the Maroons, left early Friday morning for Chicago, where the final game of the season will be staged Saturday.

A decided feeling of optimism pervaded the local camp, as its team prepared for the midway prepared to come back after defeats at the hands of Illinois and Michigan. The team is known to have a fighting determination to win that will require a change of resort to all of its tricks to stave off a first defeat.

Coach Richards has developed a variety of puzzling plays during the past week built around his backfield, which has served in the early season as a one-threat aggregation. Captain Williams and Quarterback Barr are to be seen in new roles. The scrimmage Thursday night demonstrated the offensive and defensive strength of the varsity when they turned back all of the reserve charges and with

NEW EDUCATION
IN SHARP ATTACKU. W. High Principal, Speaking
Here, Says Teaching Too
Mechanical.

Faults of modern education and their remedies, were related in an inspiring address to teachers of the local high school, Thursday afternoon, by Prin. H. L. Miller of the University high school, Madison, proving to beta glance into the future as well as an account of present-day methods.

"The trouble with education today," Prin. Miller said, "is that the teachers try to pass on to the children facts which they think they know, instead of bringing the facts from the children—we do not stress enough the creative side of the child, make his learn things, rather than fill him up with facts. Education is too much occupied with the mechanical side, not the creative side of teaching. We think more of the instruments than the object for which we are working."

Can't Measure Education
"It was the same in developing physical phenomena. Instruments were made to measure them—the microscope, the telescope and other wonderful mechanisms—and soon more thought was put into the perfecting of the instruments than that which they were expected to measure. It is true also of education today, applied in the mental, spiritual or artistic realm, whichever you call it."

Prin. Miller denounced the intelligence tests as a popular remedy. "First let those who would test intelligence define it," he said. He also denounced those pessimists who have taken the army tests, which show but 45 per cent in Class A, and said that the illiteracy of the country is its most dangerous menace.

"These tests were made to show for or five per cent," he said. "If the complies of them had wanted the men to rank 40 per cent, they could have made the tests to show that."

Pupils Should Understand
"Teachers today," Prin. Miller said, "are too much like masters of the middle ages. They read facts in books, write authors had read them some place else, and on up, and give them to their children to learn. They take pains to see that pupils have learned these facts word for word, rather than seeing that they understand their significance."

In closing Prin. Miller looked forward with hope to entering the new high school, a change which would remedy many of the ills, both physical and mental, now prevalent because of crowded quarters which hold back both the teachers and the pupils. This talk was one of many at their weekly meetings, which the proving of great benefit, bringing the faculty together often than before.

Mr. Miller spoke at night at a meeting of the local branch of the National Council of Primary Education at the Jefferson school kindergarten. Seventy attended.

MRS. NESS GAINS
15 POUNDS AND FEELS FINE

"I am a well and happy woman today, due entirely to the wonderful power of Tanlac," declared Mrs. Carrie Ness, 115 W. 5th St., Duluth, Minn.

"I can hardly describe how I suffered from stomach trouble. No matter how little I ate I was sure to have terrible smothering spells afterwards. I lived for months on liquids such as milk and soup, but I was constantly nauseated and got so I detested even the sight of food. I was gradually going down hill and I dreaded to think of the future."

"Since taking Tanlac I haven't a sign of my old troubles and I have gained fifteen pounds. I can eat just anything I want and I am cheerful and energetic all day. Tanlac was certainly worth its weight in gold to me."

17 STILL AVERAGE AGE OF STUDENTS AT H. S. GRADUATION

Contrary to general opinion, children do not now graduate from high school at an earlier age than they did five or six years ago, the report of Miss Rosemary Enright, attendance officer, shows. This year's graduation was one showing the ages of all high school children in kindergarten, on up through the last year of high school.

Most seniors of the high school are between the ages of 16 and 20 years, there being but three under the age of 17, and they will not doubt have a birthday before graduation.

Seventeen has now become the average age for graduation, in fact has been so for some years. Of these in these two senior classes, 94 are now 17 or over.

The half-year examinations, while they did cause some advancing when the plan was first inaugurated some six years ago, have proved to be a great benefit.

NATIONAL LOTTERY SHAKES ALL CUBA

Republic's Political Life Vitrally
Affected by Huge Institution.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
HAVANA.—What Unocal is to Uncle Sam and cricket to John Bull, that and more is the national lottery to Liborio, who is Cuba personified by the cartoonists.

But Unocal never has threatened the constitution nor cricket the Magna Carta while the lottery has shaken the very foundations of the 26-year old Cuban republic.

In the significance of the lottery to Liborio is included the willingness of some hundreds of thousands of Cubans to take a chance three times a month and the opportunity this has given those managing the lottery to direct the republic's political destinies.

Created 15 years ago during the administration of Jose Miguel Gomez after being banned by the provisional American government, the lottery was modeled after that which flourished for decades under Spanish rule.

Just as the records of the Spanish governors general throw little real light on the intimate workings of the nineteenth century gabelle, so does the legislative tangle surrounding its twentieth century successor keep almost everybody outside a charmed circle from knowing just how the thing works.

From the snappy legal excerpts appearing on the back of the tickets it can be estimated that if the government gets all its legal ends out of the lottery, it will have paid roughly $7,500,000 a year, for three dozen slots at the usual six weeks of $100,000 and his smaller brothers.

But just as the lottery has drawn away from the secretary of the treasury, so it has taken the street for tickets differ from the legal scale. The director of the lottery, responsible only to the president, has belittled in importance most of the public members and the prices paid peddlars for tickets are from 20 to 30 percent above par.

During the dance of the millions that marked winning numbers, they were double the legal rate. These phenomena have afforded grounds for bitter philippics by political gulls and opponents of gambling on the side and recipients of these extra receipts.

Charges Are Filed
Once a year, a list of 1,000 names is published in the official gazette, purporting to be those who have been granted the tri-monthly privilege of securing 32 full tickets from the government at $10 each and selling them at not more than $21.

The publication of this list by May 1, was followed this year by charges filed in criminal court by Representative Enrique Alazas that not only did persons long dead and others in insane asylums figure in the list, but that $3,240,000 a year of lottery receipts were being devoted to purposes to him, and to the Cuban public, unknown.

Although Judge Antonio Garcia Solis, who investigated these charges to determine whether there existed grounds for indictments, announced he had found the lottery records in perfect order, the sensation produced by the publication of charges that had been going the rounds for months fixed the attention of both the public and Congress on the lottery and the mysteries thereof.

There was little surprise, when it was learned that one of the famous memoranda submitted to President Alfredo Zayas last month by Major-General Enoch H. Crowder, who speaks for President Harding in the national palace, was concerned with the management of the lottery and was as important in its way, as the ones that insinuated the necessity of cabinet reform and a moral cleanup in the collection of federal disbursements.

Foundations Tremble
That was when the foundations of the republic trembled, for while the other cleanup jobs were not considered untidily difficult, meddling with an institution with such widespread political ramifications as the lottery was a horse of a different color. Intervention reports flew about and the administration would not permit foreign hands to tamper with the cogs of the Deus ex machina that furnished the motive power for the political steamroller.

Just after the house decided to construct a permanent base of operations for its lottery offensive, the word came from higher up that the reform suggested in one of the memoranda would be brought about by presidential decree, and congress thus would be spared a great deal of complicated and probably disagreeable legislative formalities. The director of the lottery a few days ago held a long conference with President Zayas and the president outlined to him what would be done to give the institution he still controls its pristine brightness of 1907. It is not expected that the law will still until after the close of the fiscal year on June 30, before which date congress has promised to enact much vital legislation. To act before then might delay much needed laws, for nobody knows in what directions and how far the lottery's influence extends.

Doesn't Stop Desire
Throughout all the recent hue and cry about the lottery it has been noticeable that demands for its complete suppression have been few and far between. Liborio is just as closely wedded to buying tickets three times a month as he is raising sugar cane and tobacco.

PLAN GRAND ISLE
RESORT PROJECT
New Orleans—A century-old dream of converting Grand Isle, located on the Gulf of Mexico about 60 miles south of here, into one of America's greatest resorts, is revived with the announcement that a meeting of men interested will be held here to further the project.

Options on 3,500 acres of land on the island are reported to have been obtained by the promoters, who plan the construction of a seavall, hotels, cottages, etc., at an initial expenditure of $10,000,000.

RUSSIAN STUDENTS
ON YANK RATIONS
Petrograd—Russian students to the number of 10,000 will be fed by American relief during the coming school year. They are located in Moscow, Petrograd, Odessa, Kiev, Ekaterinburg, etc. There is a dearth of profession men throughout Russia at the present time, and it is supposed to help remedy this deficiency by extending the hole to the classes which eventually will graduate and fill the vacant post.

WHEN BADGERS PLAY, RAILWAYS GET BUSY TO HANDLE CROWDS

When Wisconsin takes to the road and it is announced that 10,000 Badger fans will attend a football game, the railroads play a big part in getting the rooters to the battle on time. Behind the scenes of riding in comfortable parlor cars, there is much activity to get special trains in readiness for the journey.

Bulletins posted on official boards, telephone orders and telephone messages are many. They take the following form, issued by the Northwestern to cover five specials that will carry Badgers to the contest at Chicago Saturday:

Very Best Engines
"Trains Nos. 513 and 517, leaving Chicago on Sunday, Nov. 25, will each be given an extra steel coach on the rear of the train for Madison to handle overflow patrons, but if the patronage does not warrant the car is to be cut out."

"It will be understood these sleeping cars sold for Madison will be parked at Madison, and the passengers given an opportunity to remain in the sleepers until 8 a. m., if necessary."

"The very best engines we have must be furnished for these trains. Relay engines must be fired up and ready for quick action at Janesville, Harvard and Crystal Lake."

Must Run Fast
"Engineers who are thoroughly familiar with the handling of passenger trains must be furnished for these trains, those who are thoroughly familiar with the road."

"All of these extras run ahead of regular trains and will keep out of the way and not interfere with the operation of regular trains. We desire to make good runs with each of these trains, but bear in mind that safety must be the first consideration."

"These trains must be given absolutely clear track."

"All of these extras between Madison and Chicago will take on and discharge passengers at Janesville and all of them will be run via Sharon."

Everything Spic and Span
"All of the equipment going up for the Friday afternoon movement will leave Chicago Thursday night with Wisconsin division crews and engines, so the crews may be rested and ready to leave there 1:30 p. m. and 5 p. m. Friday. These engines should be given full tanks of water and full tanks of coal leaving Madison."

"You will have a representative of the car department on hand at Madison, with sufficient men to properly clean, ice and water each of these cars. These cars will all be lined up and ready for loading one hour and 15 minutes in advance of leaving time. Special attention will be paid by the traffic department to see that the cars are properly carded with the necessary signs."

No Delay Over Two Minutes
"Regular forms of transportation will be presented."

"See that all orders are ready for all trains passing through Janesville and Harvard, and that there is no delay at either one of these points in securing orders. It would be well on the south bound movement for an officer to be on hand at Janesville in advance of the arrival of trains to see that all orders are ready. We don't want any of these trains delayed at Janesville to exceed two minutes."

"All of the equipment going up for the Friday afternoon movement will leave Chicago Thursday night with Wisconsin division crews and engines, so the crews may be rested and ready to leave there 1:30 p. m. and 5 p. m. Friday. These engines should be given full tanks of

"You will have a representative of the car department on hand at Madison, with sufficient men to properly clean, ice and water each of these cars. These cars will all be lined up and ready for loading one hour and 15 minutes in advance of leaving time. Special attention will be paid by the traffic department to see that the cars are properly carded with the necessary signs."

No Delay Over Two Minutes
"Regular forms of transportation will be presented."

"See that all orders are ready for all trains passing through Janesville and Harvard, and that there is no delay at either one of these points in securing orders. It would be well on the south bound movement for an officer to be on hand at Janesville in advance of the arrival of trains to see that all orders are ready. We don't want any of these trains delayed at Janesville to exceed two minutes."

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, F. D. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and with out experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Teachers Meet at Beloit College

Beloit.—Educators from every section of Wisconsin and northern Illinois are meeting at Beloit college Friday for the fourth annual educational conference. Four hundred teachers are expected to attend, according to Dean C. L. Clarke of the Beloit college department of education.

"The one-day program includes a quality of speakers and subjects seldom afforded in universities," Dean Clarke said. "Dean Magarity of the Minnesota school of education and Prof. Guy M. Whipple of Michigan are leaders in the field of intelligence tests, which will be an important part of the program."

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held in the college chapel, open to all. A dinner for the Beloit County Schoolmaster's club, of which Dean Clarke is president, will be served in the evening at Emerson hall, followed by an address by Dean Magarity and one by Professor Whipple, and a social evening."

N. W. Cadets in Homecoming Game

[By Gazette Correspondent.]
Lake Geneva—Northwestern Military and Naval academy will be host to the Morgan Park Military academy here Saturday. In addition to being the final game for Northwestern, the encounter will be homecoming day. Preparations are being made to entertain a large crowd of parents, relatives and friends of the students.

The two eleven have been evenly matched in six years of rivalry. Games always have been close. Last year Morgan Park won. Northwestern is out for revenge.

Will Carp Enter Siki Title Bid?

Park—Georges Carpentier, still suffering from bad hands, is unable to resume training but there is much talk in sporting circles of a match between Georges and Joe Beckett of England, as well as a deal of speculation as to whether Carpentier will enter the competition officially opened by the boxing federation for the light heavy weight title made vacant by the disqualification of "Batling" Siki, conqueror of Carpentier.

FORMAL REPLY TO 'TIGER' IMPOSSIBLE

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington—The Clemenceau visit to America is beginning to take on a much more serious aspect than the mere lecture trip of a distinguished statesman. Unofficial, informal, absolutely disconnected from the government of France and without a mission in the formal sense, nevertheless the confessed effort of the former premier of France to influence American public opinion has drawn fire from those in the United States senate who fear America may be influenced by what M. Clemenceau writes or says.

The United States government, meaning President Harding and Secretary Hughes, who are charged with the responsibility of foreign policy, faces an awkward and delicate situation. To reply to M. Clemenceau means taking official cognizance of what he says and providing a controversy which the administration here is particularly anxious to avoid, especially since the press of domestic questions is making antagonisms and factions enough.

But M. Clemenceau's utterances and writings will not go unanswered. He has his defenders as well as his opponents in this country, and whatever may be the final judgment of the American people as to the concrete questions raised by the former French premier, he has already accomplished one object—he has stirred up foreign questions anew and focused attention on them. There have been signs that European matters would be forced to the front anyway by that group of international co-operationists in republican and democratic parties who believe the plight of Europe is inseparably interwoven in the prosperity of America and the future of the export trade, particularly agricultural products.

Economic Conference

Hints have been coming from the White House that the calling of an economic conference of all the principal powers was under consideration. The only thing that has been holding such a step back has been the fear that economic and political questions would become hopelessly entangled. America refused to enter the Genoa conference for that reason and has indicated to Europe that a separate economic conference would meet the approval of this government.

M. Clemenceau's visit comes at a time when whatever is done on the subject of an international conference will have to take into account the existing internal disputes in American politics on foreign relations. The former French premier is making no new argument, incidentally, but he is making more effective use of old arguments than any Frenchman has made.

Foreign Arguments

Looking back over the years since the armistice, every French spokesman has argued for guarantees and assurances against a German invasion and has given that as the only reason why France, burdened with debt, cannot give up such military expenditure necessary to permit the balancing of budgets. The United States government and other nations have insisted that before there can be any readjustment of war debts disbursement was necessary to permit the balancing of budgets. France has opposed disarmament and M. Clemenceau, like Premier Briand who came to Washington a year ago, asks for a triple alliance between the United States, Great Britain and France as a guarantee against German invasion. M. Briand spoke in French, and while his words were carefully translated and widely published, they were made more as a matter of explanation of French policy with respect to land disarmament than as a direct appeal for a modification of the American attitude.

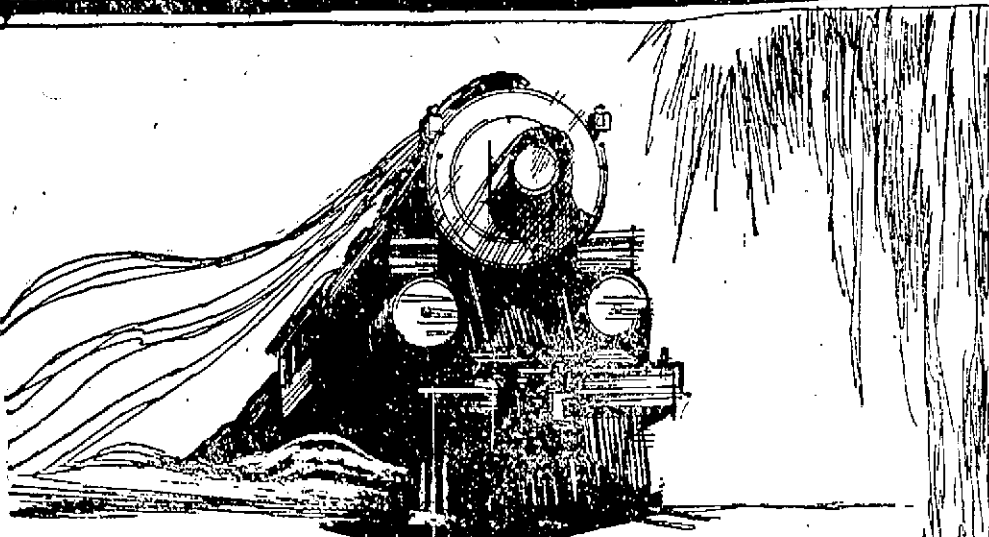

M. Clemenceau is deliberately appealing for a change in American policy. It might be thought that he wants American entrance into the league of nations. He didn't favor the league in the first place and only agreed to it on President Wilson's assertion that America would not join any alliance which is not an alliance of all nations. M. Clemenceau asked President Wilson to submit the triple defensive treaty as a matter of good faith because the French premier hoped the congress would differ with Mr. Wilson. The truth is the following: M. Clemenceau has never entertained the possibility of America under the presidency of Warren Harding joining a quadruple alliance for the common defense of the Pacific and the Atlantic. He knows that the United States will not do a similar thing in Europe where her interests, materially at any rate, are just now even larger than in the Far East.

Pleads French Cause

The changes in American policy have been difficult to understand abroad, but M. Clemenceau has determined to see for himself and to argue the cause of France in the broad sense. While it is true he has scored critics in France who differ with him as to the wisdom of many of his acts of administration, there is absolutely no doubt that on the matter of a defensive treaty to protect France against a German invasion he has the united support of all elements in the French government and the enthusiastic backing of the French people. In fact he could ride into office tomorrow even at his advanced age if he could return to France with assurances of American participation in a triple defensive pact for the defense of the French border. He is unlikely to get it.

Aloof from Entanglements

Before he is in America long he will find out that the American people are almost as much opposed to it as the British people who have instinctively wanted to pursue a policy of aloofness from continual entanglements. M. Clemenceau's journey will stir up old controversies and make foreign affairs the subject of considerable debate in the senate. His trip to Washington will probably mean an unprecedented exchange of views between the greatest exponent of defensive alliances and the champions of isolation.

FEW PLANS MADE FOR EDUCATION WEEK

National Educational week, Dec. 3-9, but will see but little attention here. It is hoped to have it brought to the attention of the community through meetings of various organizations and some speakers will give talks before such clubs as the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions. Otherwise nothing will be done, as it is the thought of local school officials that, by means of the new high school, people are already fully aware of the work the schools are doing.

Cuban Bank Depositors May Get Part Payment

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Havana—Brighter prospects for recovering some of their money are seen by depositors of the defunct National Bank of Cuba as a result of a compromise reached between the bank liquidation commission and the government. After a long drawn out controversy, the administration has decided to turn over to the liquidation commission approximately $16,500,000 in collateral seized by the government to secure nearly $20,000,000 it had on deposit in the National Bank when it closed its doors. The commission will proceed to classify and grade the claims against the bank, and if the government is not satisfied with the treatment it is accorded, recourse will be taken in an appeal to the supreme court.
